Technology facilitates greater learning. That is why we have sponsored televisions, laptops and projectors for 6 classrooms.

Besides, 50 students under My Kasih's Love My School program are having their lunches paid.

As for programs benefitting all students, we are supporting their Sports Day, UPSR exam preparation camp, Hari Anugerah and Back-to-school uniforms.

We hope this will enrich the education of 187 students there!

"Anyone who stops learning is old, whether at 20 or 80. Anyone who keeps learning stays young. The greatest thing in life is to keep your mind young."
- Henry Ford

There is no generation gap if we learn from each other. In this training by Iverson Upskilling, we have learned three important lessons!

Lesson 1: The power of cross-generation

The mature provides wisdom while the young offers energy. We cannot live without one another.

Lesson 2: Everyone has a positive intention

Even if someone slaps you, assume it as a positive intention. Offer them the other cheek too. That's how we can navigate through tricky conversations.

Lesson 3: Understand your colleagues' personality

Each of us has a special and unique personality. Do you find yourself leaning towards more dominance, influencing, steadiness or conscientiousness? How about your colleagues?

Let's seek first to understand before being understood.

Suriana Welfare Society: A Safe Haven for Children at Desa Mentari Low-cost flats

18th Jan

We sponsored two air conditioners in 'Kidzone' – an after-school learning centre located within the premise of Desa Mentari Flats for the children. Most parents of these children work as postmen, dispatch officers and hawkers with less than RM1500 household income.

The Flats has the potential of exposing children to unhealthy influences due to existing social problems caused by poverty and the lack of awareness. We hope that 'Kidzone' can provide a conducive environment for children to grow, learn and play.

The longest serving person at work has served for more than 35 years, the company that LINACO took up later on...

Were you naughty or nice? We could tell from the diversity of our rich array of students. Respected model students with books, innocent Japanese school girls in plaid skirts and mischievous delinquents were sighted in the crowd of over 240 people.

After we sang the obligatory Negaraku anthem, we were whisked away by our homegrown Oh-my-Linaco skit cum dance, games, comedies and lucky draws. Yes, we are young and will always be.

Enjoying Sekinchan Breeze on Linaco Family Day

Over 200 of us took off to the green paddy fields and sandy beaches of Sekinchan, escaping from our busy routine city life. Visiting the fields and rice processing factory, our children got to witness and appreciate how rice was processed from field to fork. No more food-wasting from now onwards!

The trip was marked with savouring golden mangoes, fresh seafood and delightful local biscuits, against the clear blue skies and cotton clouds. We will certainly treasure these memories.

I have enjoyed learning about the rice-making process. The Redang beach especially was a nice and windy place for me!

The Bernama Radio interviewed Joe about the importance of Halal certification.
"Halal is not just a certification but represent the quality of the food".

The "LIVE" Interview was in our Bahasa Kebangsaan and Joe did well!

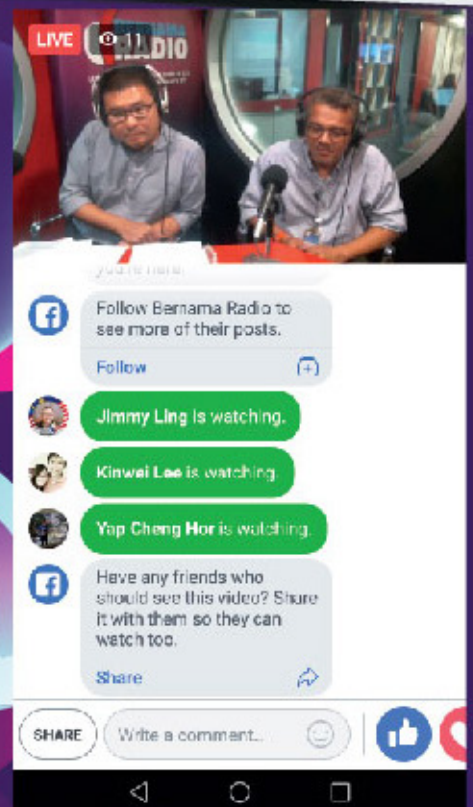

Interviewer:

Based on your experience, how does the Halal certification benefit the company?

Joe Ling:

The Malaysian Halal standard is very high. Many of the countries easily understand what the purpose of Halal is. As what Mr Rafiq says, which I agree as well. When you want to receive a Halal certification from Malaysia, it not just based on raw materials, which also includes the environment, hygiene, and how to we supervise our workers, and many more process involves.

That is the reason why at this era, Malaysia is known as the Halal hub. Unfortunately many of our neighbouring countries that have obtained the Halal certification, consumers are still perplexed whether the food are consumable based on Islam law.

4 BENEFITS OF Bowling

- 1) BURNS CALORIES
Bowling burns anywhere from 175-300 calories an hour – which is the equivalent of jumping rope for 25 minutes.
- 2) STRENGTHENED MUSCLES
The average bowling ball weighs around 14 pounds. 14-pound weight tones your shoulders, arms, chest, and legs. Gripping the ball itself strengthens the muscles in your hands.
- 3) IMPROVED FLEXIBILITY AND BALANCE
Twisting, lunging, and stretching bowling requires improves your flexibility. Every time you extend your arm and body, your joints, ligaments, and muscles are extending with it. Not to mention, carrying extra weight on your upper half leads your lower half to offset the difference with improved balance and posture.
- 4) BETTER HAND-EYE COORDINATION
Throwing a ball and striking a group of pins nearly 60 feet away requires a lot of hand-eye coordination. Coordination improves with practice over time, so the more you bowl, the better you'll get.

Exporters told to learn regulations in their exporting countries

By M. MAGESWARI
mages@thestar.com.my

KUALA LUMPUR: Exporters need to know the importing countries' regulations when exporting their products to ensure smoother transactions.

"For example, the labelling of products will depend on the (importing) country," said Linaco Manufacturing (M) Sdn Bhd managing director Joe Ling.

"Also, exporting companies may need to modify their products to meet the foreign country's safety and security codes and other import restrictions."

"Modifications are often necessary to satisfy the importing country's labelling or packaging requirements," said Ling, who was a panelist at a forum on Critical Aspects for Exporters during the Export Excellence Awards 2019 roadshow in Penang.

He told the 100 attendees that knowing the importing countries' requirements, market demands and maintaining the quality of products would contribute to success in export.

Branding is also crucial and Ling urged exporters to utilise national trade promotion agency Malaysia External Trade Development Corp's

Ling: Modifications are often necessary to satisfy the importing country's labelling or packaging requirements.

(Matrade) services.

"By leveraging on Matrade and their wide network, we would automatically gain some instant branding. Participation in international trade exhibitions is considered branding but it has to be consistent on a yearly basis."

"Some trade visitors might not talk to you during the first time but they will eventually engage you because of your consistent participation," he said, adding that booth size at trade expos made a difference too.

Ling said businesses venturing into export markets should network with the export fraternity, join associations, seek advice from experienced exporters and even visit the importers.

He revealed that one of the toughest lessons he has learnt over the years was bad debts as a result of not getting enough information on the customer's background.

He shared that challenges in the export business included the export and import process, payment, language barrier, finding the right importer, different time zone and costs.

On the export and import process, he said exporters have to arrange for shipment from port to port, container loading, accurate shipping documents, cargo arrival, import clearance, Customs inspection and delivery to the customer.

Any mishandling of cargo, or error in procedure and documents would delay the entire process and cause the exporter to incur penalty charges, he said.

As for payment, he said there have been cases of customers refusing to remit under bank-issued letters of credit due to their lack of knowledge in preparing the required shipping documents.

Also, delays in telegraphic transfer payment by the customer could affect bank charges due to fluctuating currency rates, he said.

On challenges in food and beverage exports, Ling listed geography and transit time, shelf life, import duties and tax, cargo handling, weather as well as peak and non-peak seasons.

The next roadshow will be at New World Petaling Jaya Hotel in Selangor on April 30. To register, go to www.exportawards.com.my.

Sar Media Group in partnership with Standard Chartered launched the inaugural Export Excellence Awards 2019, with PKT Logistics as co-sponsor and Matrade as patron. The seven main award categories are electrical and electronics; oil and gas; chemical, mineral and alloy; agriculture; machinery, equipment and automation; services; and other industries.

Three companies will receive the Exporter of the Year title, while a special award will be given in the halal products category.

Deadline for entry submission is Aug 2, and winners will be announced at the awards ceremony in November.

- Most visitors can stay for up to 6 months in Canada. At the port of entry, the border services officer may allow you to stay for less or more than 6 months. If so, they'll put the date you need to leave by in your passport. They might also give you a document, called a visitor record, which will show the date you need to leave by.
- If you don't get a stamp in your passport, you can stay for 6 months from the day you entered Canada or until your passport expires, whichever comes first.
- Canadian VISA is given based on the expiry date of your passport. Example:
 Malaysian passport due in 1 year = Visa 1 year
 Malaysian passport due in 5 years = Visa 5 years.

Breaking ice with Bethesda House's Children at Chester Old Folks Home

22nd June

Fifteen children from Bethesda House had a joyful Saturday with thirteen staff-volunteers from LINACO. The morning started with McDonald's breakfast before they leave for Chester Old Folks Home in Rawang together. Volunteers prepared food like "Chikuteh" (using herb packets from Claypot – a brand under LINACO!) and fruits for twelve old folks while the children prepared a performance to interact with the old folks. They managed to do some simple gardening at the old folk's home. The old folks enjoyed the company of the children from Bethesda Home. Many of the children from Bethesda House come from families of single parent and difficult background. Some children shared their feelings of the yearning to be close with their family members to volunteers from LINACO. It was indeed a time for reflection and gratitude.

HE WHO BUILDS WILL HIMSELF
BE BUILT

"My favourite is still hole #19?"

Steve Lim
General Manager
Linaco Food Industries Sdn Bhd

Looking over lush green lawn that sprawls across 250 acres of land and with occasional well-placed palm trees, water feature and sand traps, the picturesque sight is indeed inviting in an otherwise hot afternoon sun. The desire to strike the ball well throughout the 18-hole golf course can well be associated with a confident kid yearning to outrun everybody else in the race. As you make the first tee-off, tension builds up like a mercury shot up in a thermometer and it didn't help with many pairs of eyes looking forward to see how well the shot is going to be. Much to my disappointment, the ball went into the rough and although the grass was fairly trimmed, the sight of the ball was obscure. To add salt into the wound, all the other players were hitting well and I was mumbling to myself that I should be hitting in that manner too. As the game progress, you try to salvage whatever you can to keep the game and hope alive. Finally, you end up trying to keep the ball in the line so that the game doesn't get stalled with you trying to search for your ball.

Such was the scene 2 years ago when I encounter this golf game in a serious manner. The sheer disappointment faced over and over again would be enough for many people to put the game on RIP. But I was determined to see through what I have started and dispel many people's belief that becoming a single handicapper in 3 years was not possible. Well I do not have the answer yet on whether it can be done or not as there is still a year left for it. But coming this far without ever giving up is a success on its own already. I may not reach the target within the time frame but I do know that I am halfway to the moment that I would be proud of. Talent alone gives you the advantage but sheer determination coupled with hard work will bring you a long way in whatever things that you do. Certainly, there are sacrifices to be made, i.e. time, money, family, etc but you will live a proud moment in life to be told. You may not have the speed of a rabbit but you will certainly reach there as a tortoise. And after all, besides God, you are the master of your own destiny and you write your own narrative of achievements to be remembered.

So stay tune for another year to see if I can debunk the myth of becoming a single handicapper in 3 years' time.

When Steve was asked to do a writeup.... as usual he would come up with many EXCUSES!!!

- 1) So many words? My England not veli good la.
- 2) Need some beer leh to get the mind and hand moving.
- 3) Am mastering the skill of 'siam'.
- 4) Poem ok kah, not so many words.

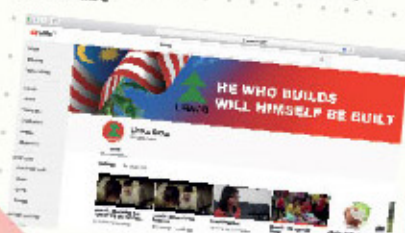

5) Haha this essay writing won't contribute to my bottom line. Not so important.

6) Don't have enough time. Tomorrow got to go church some more.
